COAL STRIKE HINGES ON OPERATORS

INEVITABLE UNLESS OWNERS' STATEMENT WITHDRAWN—LEWIS
Coal Fields Happy Over Report Strike Is Postponed.

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Aug. 27.—Unless the anthracite coal operators "withdraw their statement that they will yield nothing and reject everything that disturbs one factor of mine costs," a strike in the anthracite fields is inevitable.

This ultimatum was delivered early today by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers of America, following a conference of nearly two hours at the Bellevue Stratford with John H. Uhl, chairman of the "no strike" committee and Ralph Amerman, a Scranton, Pa. banker. Uhl and Amerman followed Lewis to this city in an effort to prevent him from giving out the order to the miners to strike. They were advised when Lewis left Hazelton, Pa. yesterday that he had prepared a statement declaring a strike. Lewis said that he had no intention of issuing a strike order today.

President Lewis' statement, after his conference with Uhl and Amerman follows:

"Mr. Uhl and Mr. Amerman have read to me the statement of the operators together with the operators' subsequent interpretation.

"I have pointed out to Messrs. Uhl and Amerman the one sentence in my Hazelton address which is the heart of the mine workers' position as to further negotiations.

"If they will withdraw their statement on record in the conference that they will yield nothing and reject everything that disturbs the factor of mine costs, then there can be negotiations.

"If the operators will meet this condition affirmatively the mine workers will be glad immediately to negotiate. If the reply is in the negative then it is obvious that negotiations would be utterly futile."

Uhl said he will refer the Lewis statement to the operators in an effort to bring about a renewal of negotiations.

Wilkes Barre, Pa., Aug. 27.—There was rejoicing throughout the anthracite coal fields today over the belief that the citizen committee has at last succeeded in delaying, if not preventing a hard coal strike on September 1.

All eyes were turned toward Philadelphia, expecting to see before the day is over whether or not the efforts of the citizens committee actually accomplished what is earnestly hoped for in all quarters here, the resumption of negotiations by the miners and operators.

DUCHESS WILL MAKE ATTEMPT TO BLOCK HUSBAND'S DIVORCE

Former Cincinnati Girl Will Oppose Separation Suit.

London, Aug. 27.—The Duchess of Manchester, formerly Miss Helen Zimmerman of Cincinnati, will make an attempt to block the divorce proceedings which the Duke of Manchester has started in Nice, according to an announcement made today by her attorney.

The attorneys for the Duchess stated that they have already taken the necessary steps to seek dismissal of the divorce petition which the duke has filed under the French laws, after establishing a residence in Nice. Although it has been no secret in London society that there has long been domestic differences between the duke and the duchess, the announcement of the duke's divorce petition came as a surprise.

It was reported that the duke sought divorce in order that he might marry a young English girl, almost unknown in social circles.

The duke is well known in the United States where he lived for some time and engaged in numerous occupations. He has properties in Canada and it was recently reported that he had high hopes of making a fortune from the operations of a Canadian gold mine.

FARMER KILLED
Gallipolis, O., Aug. 27.—Aaron Osborne, 66, prominent Lawrence County farmer, was killed on the Oak Ridge Road when the automobile truck he was driving, left its course and tumbled over an embankment. His neck was broken. His brother, Ephraim, was seriously injured.

RAILROADS COMPLAIN
Nelsonville, O., Aug. 27.—Railroad officials complained that women and children, most of them living in the little mining camps, are daily endangering their lives by picking up coal along the tracks. One aged woman was cut to pieces by a fast passenger train while thus securing fuel.

"Darrow Publicity Seeker"

Scopes Lawyer Scored By Ohio Justice To New Attorneys

CLEVELAND, O., Aug. 27.—Using the defense arguments of Clarence Darrow, famous Chicago lawyer, in the Scopes Tennessee "monkey trial" as an example of the "unethical in law practice," Chief Justice of the Ohio Supreme Court C. T. Marshall, today spoke of the successful students of the Ohio Bar examination of June 25 and endeavored to steer them from disreputable law activities.

He brought Darrow to task before the new members of the Ohio bar and declared that Darrow's conduct during the Scopes trial should bring upon him the condemnation of all self-respecting members of the bench and bar.

"He had no purpose or motive except publicity and notoriety," declared the chief justice. "Neither the indictment nor the statute under which the indictment was framed, contained any mention of evolution. Neither did they in the remotest degree involve or necessarily provoke any discussion of the theory of evolution."

"The Tennessee statute provides that it shall be unlawful for any teacher in any of the public schools of the state to teach any theory that denies the story of the Divine creation of man or to teach that man has descended from a lower order of animals. That the forbidden doctrine was so taught, was freely admitted by the defendants. No defense was therefore open except that of the constitutional validity of the law itself."

"And yet Darrow sought to browbeat and to bluff the judge into admitting expert evidence upon the soundness of the theory of evolution," Marshall exclaimed.

"His nature revealed itself, when upon citation for contempt, and when faced with the probability of paying a fine he made the most humble and abject apology. The character of Darrow is again shown by a recent public statement made by him that courts are cockpits in which lawyers may fight."

Marshall concluded his reference to Darrow by pleading "It is hoped that no young practitioner in the courts of Ohio will acquire this gross misconception of courts of justice."

Marshall congratulated the successful students and analyzed several of the bars rules of ethics. He pointed out that the modern standard of high living and high thinking should make the bar strive still further toward the ideals of the court and toward the young practitioners to be on the lookout for opportunities to serve their communities and their profession in a noble way by taking worthy cases regardless of the fee they are to receive.

Mother Called Kidnapers of Son

Mrs. Roscoe Canaday, accused of kidnaping her own son, Roscoe, may be extradited from San Antonio, Tex., to New York on the charge. But she hopes that Ma Ferguson, Governor of Texas, will not sign the papers.

DENTIST HELD IN MURDER OF WIFE SUICIDES

Dr. Young Strangles Himself With Wire During Trial

Los Angeles, Calif., Aug. 27.—Dr. Thomas W. Young, on trial here for the murder of his millionaire wife, choked himself to death in the county jail here early today with a piece of wire. Jailers had kept a close watch on the dentist during the night. It was stated, as the jury trying him for the death of his wife, was today to have visited the Beverly Glen cabin, where the woman's body was found buried in a cistern last February.

At six o'clock this morning, the jailers peered into the "tank" in the jail basement where Dr. Young was held in solitary confinement.

The little dentist, pale and wan, was sleeping peacefully, the guards reported, but at 7:20 o'clock when jailers again looked into Young's cell they saw him stretched out on his cot dead.

The chief jailer reported immediately to the sheriff that the dentist was dead. He killed himself with a tourniquet fashioned from a wire and held tight about his throat with a wooden stake.

According to jail attendants the wire used by Young to end his life was a piece of radio wire. The keen eyes of the cultured prisoner had sighted the radio aerial which ran across the jail basement passing through his cell.

YOUTH TAKES JOKE SERIOUSLY; LOST

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—Authorities in all parts of Ohio and West Virginia today are on the lookout for 15 year old Herman Hartwell, Jr., who was frightened away from his home here by a practical "joker" it was claimed. The lad has been missing since August 14 when, upon returning home, he was told by the "joker" that his father was after him because he was not old enough to drive a car.

Since receiving a post card from their son, mailed at Portsmouth, Mr. and Mrs. Hartwell made a futile trip to that city and to Ironton, Kenova and other points, trying to find Herman. The father, with relatives, is still searching in southern Ohio and West Virginia territory. Mrs. Hartwell is said to be in a serious nervous condition. Hartwell declared there is no thought of punishing Herman.

BALLROOM OWNERS ORGANIZE AT MEET

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—Frank P. Spellman, New York, and Cleveland, today is president of the newly organized Ohio Ballroom Owners' and Managers Protective Association. Other officers chosen at the organization meeting here Wednesday night include: Carl A. Sinclair, Canton; Walter Delskamp, Dayton; L. C. Brick, Cleveland and French Wilgus, Russell's Point, vice presidents; A. L. Boyer, Columbus, secretary and T. W. Lawson, Columbus, treasurer. The association, it was announced, will insist upon clean and moral amusement. Approximately $25,000 were pledged for an education campaign by representatives of 36 Ohio ball rooms.

CONGRESS SCORED BY NEW FOR FAILURE TO PERMIT RATE RAISES

Recommendations Made By Experts Ignored Says Postal Head

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27.—Criticizing the U. S. Congress for refusing to accept postoffice recommendations for certain additional rate increases to care for a feared department deficit, Postmaster General Harry S. New, addressed the national postal symposium of eleven different, postal organizations here today.

Almost 6,000 of the country's postal employees were on hand to hear their chief's talk to the joint meeting of postmasters, rural carriers, postal supervisors, national association of postoffice clerks and postoffice inspectors this morning before lunch.

The postmaster general brought the greeting of President Coolidge expressing the chief executives' approval of the good service all the branches of the postoffice department has been rendering. New lamented the fact that the recent salary increases of $68,000,000 a year could not be taken care of at least in part by certain mail rate increases and criticized congress for voting down the recommendations of postal experts in the matter.

"Upon advice of service experts the postmaster general made certain recommendations for increases in the rates of postage," New said. "Congress did not accept these recommendations in whole but disregarded them in many essential particulars, substituting for them measures of its own creation. And it is because of the change in scale brought about by these various processes that the subject of postal rates has become so acute a problem."

Answering recent editorial comment and advice by editors who prescribed business methods for the postoffice department in fighting down a deficit, New said:

"As postmaster general I have just completed my estimates of expenditures and receipts for the fiscal year 1927. The preliminary estimated expenditures were placed at $750,084,700 the receipts at $702,900,000. Of this $750,000,000 expense item, $66,207,229 is for salaries and allowances at rates fixed by law, and for the payment of transportation charges at rates fixed by the interstate commerce commission or by postal conventions with foreign governments which have the force of treaties. These constitute 86 percent of the total estimated expenditures. In addition to these sums, we have to pay in indemnities based on the actual value of articles lost in the mails, estimated at $3,900,000 and $2,297,000 representing payments made to other departments for services rendered by them which under the law must be paid for at actual cost for example, printing done for us by the government printing office, stamps, etc., made by the bureau of engraving and printing. Including these items, the total costs fixed by law would be 89 percent of the total expenditures."

"If the president and board of directors of the great United States steel corporation found themselves confronted by such a state of figures and facts what do you think they would do?"

New also struck briefly at congressmen who abuse the "franked and penalty" mail matter provisions by pouring speeches, etc. out upon the public at a cost to the department of $357,819.45.

New explained that the United States mail service has the cheapest rates in the world. He said every effort at economy was being practiced in the department and that suggestions were welcome as to chances for betterment of service and department management.

SINK YOUR STRAW AUGUST 31

The death knell for straw hats will be sounded Monday, August 31, when the official close of the hay bonnet season arrives. Fashion demands this form of summer head apparel be cast aside on that day, when fall fashions will be in vogue.

Clothing stores are already displaying new lines of autumn headpieces and because of the cool weather prevailing for the past two weeks, it is thought Xenians will not feel any misgivings in falling in line with fashion's annual ultimatum.

The well dressed young man of September will find himself hopelessly out of order unless the straw-piece is discarded, clothing stores say.

Dr. Josef Wirth, former Chancellor of Germany, has bolted the Centrist party, and his defection may cause the collapse of the Luther ministry. He is opposed to the new customs, tariff and taxation laws.

ANGLO-FRENCH DEBT AGREEMENT BLOCKS U. S. NEGOTIATIONS

Will Complicate Efforts To Reach Settlement With France

Washington, Aug. 27.—The Anglo-French debt funding agreement was looked upon here today among government officials as another stumbling block placed in the path to adjustment of France's $4,000,000,000 debt to the United States.

It was agreed that the tentative London settlement probably will complicate the Franco-American negotiations scheduled to take place in Washington next month, but it was emphasized anew that the U. S. has no official connection with the Anglo French agreement and is not bound in anyway to recognize it as arriving at a settlement with France.

While carefully avoiding any public statement which might impugn the motives of either the French finance minister or the British foreign minister officials privately expressed the view that the Anglo-French agreement could be regarded more or less as an effort on the part of France to scale down her debt to the United States rather than to pay the $3,750,000,000 which she owes England.

The fact that the agreement provided for little more than the payment of interest by France to England over a period of 62 years was enough, it was stated, to eliminate it from consideration as a basis for a Franco-American debt settlement.

The American debt commission has already taken the debt agreement with Great Britain as a model for future settlements with European debtors and will expect France to agree to terms along the lines previously laid down taking into consideration, of course, her capacity to pay.

As a sequel to the London negotiations, it was generally expected that there would be a renewal of propaganda both in this country and abroad for partial cancellation of the debts owed the United States, especially in the case of France, which is the largest debtor, because of the surprisingly favorable terms extended to France by Great Britain.

The statement by the British foreign minister that it would be of no service to Europe, already grievously stricken, if the sacrifices of one creditor of France merely conducted to the advantage of another, was taken to presage the new movement for debt cancellation.

Such a policy, however, is contrary to that of the U. S. and could result, officials declared, only in delaying rather than in hastening inter-allied debt settlements.

London, Aug. 27.—From almost every editorial sanctum in England, hostile comment came forth today to combat the tentative agreement of Chancellor of the Exchequer Winston Churchill to accept 12,500,000 pounds annually in payment of France's war debt.

The press generally reflected surprise at the lenient offer that the French finance minister, Joseph Caillaux, today carries back to Paris for approval by his government.

Paris, Aug. 27.—The tentative settlement of the war debt to Great Britain arrived at in London between Winston Churchill, chancellor of the exchequer and M. Caillaux, finance minister, will be studied at a special cabinet meeting which has been called for 9 o'clock tonight.

Berlin, Aug. 27.—While German officials are inclined to accept the French note upon the proposed security pact as the basis for direct negotiations the German press is widely divided as to the possibility of a security pact being actually agreed upon under the terms laid down by the French note.

MOUNTAIN VILLAGES ENTIRELY WIPED OUT BY BIG LANDSLIDES

Yokohama Faces Water Shortage—Tokio Partially Submerged.

Tokio, Aug. 26.—As meagre reports trickled in this evening the vernacular papers estimated the death toll of the series of floods which have swept Japan at approximately forty.

Several mountain villages are reported to have been wiped out by great landslides.

The city of Yokohama faces a water shortage due to the collapse of the great reservoir supplying the municipality.

Tokio, Aug. 27.—Eleven persons were known to be dead; scores were missing and thousands homeless as Japan today began checking up on its latest disaster—floods which reached their crest today and inundated two-thirds of Tokio and most of the surrounding country.

The floods came in the midst of forty hours of continuous rain and were accompanied by landslides which did heavy damage.

Only two of the casualties occurred in Tokio according to a checkup this afternoon. The list of dead was expected to be swelled by reports from adjoining provinces which are now cut off from communication with Tokio by the washing out of telephone and telegraph lines.

More than fifty landslides were reported in the Kwanto district alone. It was estimated 30,000 homes were inundated here and in Yokohama and the number of homeless was near 100,000. Property damage was not confined to the cities. Loss in the rice fields alone was figured at millions of yen.

In some sections of Tokio the water was several feet deep. Even the foreign districts, which are on comparatively high ground, did not escape. The Imperial Hotel was flooded before sandbag dikes could be built about the doors. The basement was filled with water.

BANKRUPTCY FACED BY OHIO UNLESS NEW REVENUE PROVIDED

Davis and Knight Possible Seekers Of Governor's Chair

Cleveland, O., Aug. 27.—Possibility that the already heavily taxed residents of Ohio must dig deeper into their pocket books to meet the increasing needs of the state government for revenues was seen today in the statement of Senator Harry M. Carpenter, of Jefferson County that the state faces bankruptcy within a year, unless new sources of revenue were found.

Carpenter told his legislative colleagues, here for the reunion of the eighty-sixth general assembly that either the entire building program authorized by the last session must be abandoned, or the state must seek new sources of taxation to meet the issue.

Comment among leaders this morning, as the visitors prepared for a day of merry-making was largely centered upon this proposal. While individual members refused to express their views as to how the state's dilemma was to be met, it was suggested that an increase in the state gasoline tax, perhaps to four cents per gallon, or the enactment of a state income tax modeled after the plan of Wisconsin or New York, might be resorted to.

That Harry L. Davis, former governor of Ohio and defeated for that office last fall by A. V. Donahy, Democratic incumbent, will enter the primaries next fall, in order to seek "vindication" was said today to be a foregone conclusion.

Legislative leaders today also discussed probability of the entry of Charles L. Knight, Akron and Springfield publisher, who was a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor in 1922. That he would be sure to enter the lists if Colonel Carmel Thompson became a candidate was the statement made by men supposed to be in his confidence.

Prospective candidates meeting with the legislators today included Secretary of State Thad H. Brown and James A. White, former superintendent of the Ohio Anti Saloon League, the latter an unsuccessful candidate in the 1924 Republican primary.

POLLUTION MEET

Columbus, O., Aug. 27.—Plan whereby industrial waste of acid steel plants may be disposed of without polluting Ohio rivers and streams will be considered at a conference to be held here this afternoon between State Health Director Monger and about twenty representatives of the acid steel plants of Ohio.

PONCE DE LEON IS CAUGHT BY POLICE

Paris, Aug. 27.—Ponce de Leon came to Paris recently in the person of Louis Autram, who went about declaring he knew all about a Fountain of Youth until the Parisian police put a crimp into his plans.

Louis said he was one hundred and seven years of age and showed his birth certificate to prove it, dated from Cannes January 23, 1818. But he was as gay and chirp as any 1925 flapper. The hair restorers and Vaseline couldn't do any business with him, but he was doing business with everybody else, sending out circulars about his wonderful elixir and showing its benefits to patients from all corners of the globe.

In fact, he felt so young that he decided to enroll in the electoral lists and interest himself in the government of his country. This is where the rub came. The clerk who asked his age was a bit skeptical and took steps to find out the truth about Louis' birth certificate. It did not take him long to learn that the real Monsieur Autram had departed this life some sixty-eight years ago.

CARBON MONOXIDE FUMES ARE FATAL TO MIDDLETOWN MAN

Robert W. Renick, 31, wealthy society leader of Middletown, and son of Colonel M. W. Renick, chairman of the board of The First and Merchants' National Bank, Middletown, was found dead in his automobile in the garage at his home, there, Wednesday afternoon.

Death was caused by asphyxiation from carbon monoxide fumes which came from the automobile exhaust, according to the coroner. Mr. Renick had been dead for several hours.

The body was found by K. L. Estabrook, Dayton, business associate of Mr. Renick. Estabrook is well known in Xenia and is the owner of "Guardman" famous German police dog which is being trained here.

Mrs. Renick was before marriage Miss Marion Hooven of Hamilton. She is a cousin of several Xenia people. Besides his widow Mr. Renick leaves two young children.

He was secretary of the Estabrook Coal Company of Dayton. Mr. Estabrook had gone to Middletown to the Renick home and failing to find anyone at home, found Mr. Renick's body in the garage.

Apparently Mr. Renick had kept the motor of his automobile running while he studied papers, which were found beside the body. The doors and windows of the garage were closed and the fumes filled the building.

Mr. Renick was also secretary of the Advance Bag Company, Middletown and had other business interests. He is also survived by his father, Colonel M. W. Renick and a brother, William M. Renick of Middletown.

AMERICA'S PEP WINS INVENTION

Darlington, Eng. Aug. 27.—American hustle has won the race for the possession of a prized British invention.

Arthur Schloerb, industrial magnate, on vacation in England, heard that the rights of a wonderful invention by Robert E. Goldsborough were in the market. The inventor has discovered a gas which, he says, will entirely eliminate the smoke nuisance in large cities, and will supply greater power than any other fuel at a far less cost.

The principal of the invention is a mixture of crude oil and steam. Hearing the news, Schloerb immediately took the night train to the North of England. Goldsborough was awaiting him and the two talked business until the next morning.

The concluding stages were discussed in a fast car that took them from Darlington to New castle. Here a contract, running into large sums, was signed with the directors of the Goldsborough Company. Two days later, Schloerb, vacation forgotten, was speeding back to the United States.

Goldsborough, who is not yet forty, has forty-seven inventions to his credit. He was the discoverer of the famous "depth charge" used against German submarines in the war, and also of the Vickers cinema gun camera.

LAZY AUTOISTS ARE CALLED MENACE TO GASOLINE SUPPLY

Los Angeles, Aug. 27.—Lazy automobile drivers are causing a gasoline loss of nearly 400,000,000 gallons annually, and are a national menace both to the fuel supply and the public health, Professor Alexander Silverman, head of the department of chemistry in the University of Pittsburgh, declared here in an address before the Division of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry of the American Chemical Society.

This laziness is costing the nation about $275,000 a day and $23,000,000 every year, he said. The daily loss of gasoline from this source he estimated at 1,450,000 gallons. Professor Silverman based his conclusions on one hour of idling each day, but asserted that the time actually idled away was much greater.

He urged that the American Chemical Society and the American Medical Association combine with the other scientific societies of the country to bring about legislation, both Federal and State, to end waste through idleness.

Methods have been proposed so to regulate the gasoline-air mixture as to reduce the carbon monoxide content of exhaust gases and increase fuel efficiency, said Professor Silverman, but the general public disregards this possibility and "speed is still king."

"But the wasting of gasoline and the poisoning of the air while cars are parking continues," said Prof. Silverman, "and laws should be enacted prohibiting this practice. Drivers of taxicabs and trucks are too lazy or indifferent to shut off the gas and crank their cars."

"Were all cars equipped with self-starters, most of the trouble would be eliminated. In the interest of fuel conservation and health protection the law should require that all cars should be so equipped and penalties imposed on violators."

"To furnish a conservative approximation of the monetary loss and the extent of air pollution a national survey was made. The average parking period each day was fixed at one hour as a result of extensive study by experts of motor fuels and exhaust gases with various types of machines."

Taxicabs and trucks are chief offenders, according to Prof. Silverman, who said that the common practice of drivers of parking a string of a dozen or more cars while waiting admission to the garage in a line of cabs which lasts an hour or more is neither wholesome or economical.

FORD.

SINCE Henry Ford backed up his expressed interest in aviation by buying out the Stout Airplane company, many wild-cat aviation schemes have popped up over the country.

This is the information gathered from an aviation worker who is in a position to be in close touch with the situation. It would seem that sponsors of the oil bubbles and fake stock promotion schemes have turned their attention to mulcting the public with aviation promotion schemes arguing that Ford will do for aviation what he did for the automobile industry.

Ford himself is doing everything he can to prevent these schemes becoming successful. He has warned that while he is interested in the success of aviation, he looks for no sudden boom in this direction. However, he is powerless to prevent the use of the ancient bromides "I'm invested in Ford's plant when he started out would have made a fortune for you," and the suckers are still biting in the belief the motor magnate will revolutionize the air industry.

Those closely allied with aviation progress, however, are optimistic but look for no sudden improvement. They admit frankly that the development is in its infancy and that commercial flying is still in the experimental stage. However, these men look for these handicaps to be gradually overcome.

When it is known that it takes several hundred dollars to recondition a plane after a long trip and prepare it to go out again, some of the vast expense that attaches to flying will be realized. Perhaps it is best for aviation that its progress is slow. Sane and conservative development will insure for the industry a firm foundation on which to build success when its development has reached practicality.

PUBLICITY.

AN Anti-Saloon League official in Cincinnati proposed that newspapers should not print the names of arrested bootleggers on the ground that it is only valuable advertising to the bootlegger himself.

The statement throws a new light on the much-mooted question of the value of publicity. The editor of any newspaper is besieged frequently and even more frequently finds every obstacle thrown in his way when it comes to printing news the subject of which is detrimental to the character of the persons involved.

Yet, on the other hand, the people of the stage and screen have learned that publicity, good or bad, just so it is publicity is invaluable. Getting their names in the paper means that they are brought to the attention of millions of people and this newspaper acquaintanceship means dollars in the salary contract.

Therefore, whether the publicity is good or bad, they find that its virtues overcome its disadvantages from an advertising standpoint. Now it seems that the bootleggers have also recognized this feature. With their names and addresses in the paper they have free advertising which reaches their customers and is invaluable to them.

PROSPERITY.

THE greatest autumn business in history is being forecast by the newspaper advertising men of the United States.

To the business man this is good news indeed.

It comes through the medium of the Editor and Publisher magazine published in the interests of the newspapers, which gathered the information in a nation-wide survey. The information fits into reports which say that the money in the bank that will follow this summer's successful farm crops, will launch the country on the wave of prosperity.

A resume of the information obtained by the magazine follows:

"Not a cloud can be seen on the business horizon by the newspaper executives in all sections of the United States and Canada who, in response to Editor and Publisher's request, telegraphed their views on the prospects for fall business. They are all optimistic, some of them enthusiastically so, some of them just optimistic, and a line drawn through their opinions would transfix these reasons for the happiness of mind.

"Farms, in most sections, free of the debt that has oppressed them since 1920, leaving the 1925 income available for purchase of home necessities and luxuries.

"Banks clearings at the highest totals ever recorded.

"Tremendous activity in building of homes and commercial and industrial structures throughout the country, with frequent records in value of building permits.

"Revival of mining in several sections where inactivity has been the rule since the war.

"General confident attitude of retail merchants, evidenced by their purchases for fall sale and their advertising commitments.

"Unusually early beginning of fall national advertising schedules in newspapers and the outlook that newspaper advertising lineage will set new high totals in many regions."

VEAL SALAD

Paris, Aug. 24—Veal salad is a delightful French one for warm days. The French housewife uses her left-over roast for it.

Cut the meat into thin slices. Pour over oil and vinegar and let stand for two hours or more. Arrange upon a platter and garnish with slices of hard-boiled eggs and small pickles.

Put into a small saucepan a spoonful of mustard, with two or three chopped anchovies, a spoonful of vinegar and three spoonfuls of oil with salt and pepper. Mix well and serve with the veal. A few capers make the sauce all the better.

Some time ago one of my Column Readers asked for directions for crocheting a perfectly plain silk hand-bag with a draw-string top. The following directions could be used without inserting the beads, although the head decorations are most effective.

Crocheted Bead Bag: In these directions "B. S. C." means bead with single crochet. The materials needed, are two spools of blue pure twist, 15 bunches of blue beads, and a steel crochet hook (sizes nine to eleven may be used.) One side of the stitch should be taken up when beads are being added, but to make the work tight the hook should be inserted through both sides otherwise. The beads are added on the side which is away from the worker, the wrong side of the bag being entirely plain. Before beginning the crocheting, string the beads on the purse twist (two to four bunches at a time being enough to work with.)

Begin by chaining five and joining in a ring. Row One: 14 B. S. C. in this ring. Row Two: One B. S. C. in first st. and two B. S. C. in next—around. Row Three: Two B. S. C. in first st. and two B. S. C. in next st.—around. Continue adding till eleven B. S. C. and two B. S. C. in next st.

Thirteenth Row: Eleven B. S. C. and two B. S. C. in next st. for four more rows. Seventeenth Row: B. S. C. around for 15 more rows. Thirty-third Row: B. S. C. for 15 more rows.

Edging at Top for Drawstring: Row One: Chain two and two treble crochet—around. Row Two: Chain three, two double crochet in chain of two (previous row); chain two, two double crochet in chain of two; chain three, one single crochet in next chain of two—continue in this way around. Row Three: Chain three, seven B. T. C. (bead in treble crochet) in chain of two between double crochet (putting point on each T. C.); chain three, one S. C. over S. C. on previous row. For pleat, chain three and fasten in first chain stitch with S. C. Crochet a drawstring and insert.

Child-birth

Here is a wonderful message to all expectant mothers!

When the Little One arrives, you can have that moment more free from suffering than you have perhaps imagined. An eminent physician, expert in this science, has shown the way. It was he who first produced the great remedy, "Mother's Friend."

Mrs. C. J. Hartman, Scranton, Pa., says:

"With my first two children I had a doctor and a nurse and then they had to use instruments, but with my last two children I used 'Mother's Friend' and had only a nurse; we had no time to get a doctor because I wasn't very sick—only about ten or fifteen minutes." Use "Mother's Friend" as our mothers and grandmothers did. Don't wait, start today, and meanwhile write to Bradfield Regulator Co., R. 46, Atlanta, Ga., for a free illustrated book containing information every expectant mother should have. "Mother's Friend" is sold by all drug stores—everywhere.

Cuticura Heals

Blisters All Over Body And Hands

My trouble began with little blisters that appeared all over my body and hands and after a couple of days would break and form large, sore eruptions. They had an itching sensation that was almost unbearable at times, especially upon retiring and arising in the morning. The breaking out was unsightly, especially on my hands, and when I got warm in bed the irritation used to keep me awake.

I decided to try Cuticura Soap and Ointment and after using three cakes of Cuticura Soap and two boxes of Cuticura Ointment I was healed. (Signed) Miss Mary M. Mingis, 5124 Maple Ave., St. Louis, Mo.

WHY?

We have a human question mark Whose constant call is "Why?" And at her age no living sage Her mind could satisfy.

"Why" follows every small command Or pleading we deny: We try in vain to make things plain, But still she questions "Why?"

Come in, go out, do this or don't, From dawn to dusk the cry Which fill our ears (in smiles or tears) Is one incessant "Why?"

In vain, in vain is learning deep Or wisdom's fully supply, Say "all dogs bark!" this question mark Will promptly ask us "Why?"

Then say that God made dogs to bark And birds to sing and fly, And little girls to grow long curls, She merely answers "Why?"

One query to another leads, All wisdom she defies, Man has no speech, the end to reach Unto her flood of "Whys?"

And yet from cradle to the grave, From birth until we die The loveliest age on this worlds stage Is childhood's age of "Whys?"

Today's Talks

UNDUSTED HEARTS

Dust talks in bit on language—makes someone else happy, every time you explore some secret place of earth and find there something to emulate and inspire you to better it is so easy to keep dust away. But somehow the easy things to do so often round out into the ones that are left undone.

Every day I meet people who treat their hearts as they do their furniture at home or their books or their desks at the office. They pay no attention to the dust that accumulates until they have a heart that doesn't seem new at all, just something ready for salvage or trade.

It's the heart that moves our world, not the things we think and turn over in our brains.

We say beauty. And our hands reach out for it whether it be expressed by a flower, or some lovely creation of the brain of a man; but to keep this beauty, it must pass to the heart and there take upon itself all the richness of that chamber of warmth and appreciation.

Just imagine walking into a heart and finding dust there!

But when you fail to do something that you can and that you know you should do, every time you pass up a noble and stirring impulse to perform, you let the dust accumulate on your heart.

And dust always covers up so much beauty, so much that is genuine.

All worth is highest with the dust eliminated.

LARGE CROWDS GREET FORMAL OPENING OF NEW HOME BEAUTIFUL

Favored with fair skies, the four day opening of The Evening Gazette and The Morning Republican "Home Beautiful" on North Detroit Street, began Thursday afternoon at 1 o'clock. Many persons were on hand to be conducted through the model home.

Everything was in readiness for the reception, from the shrubs planted on the lawn by the Lampert Floral Company, to a handsome Chrysler coach in the basement garage, installed by Ankeny and Weaver, automobile salesmen.

Members of the Xenia Garden Club, gowned in attractive afternoon frocks greeted the guests with sandwiches and coffee, furnished by the Dunkel Grocery Company and punch. Music will be furnished during the evening by the O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band.

The opening continues through Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Receiving hours the first three days were from 1 to 5:30 p.m., and from 6 to 10 p.m. Sunday, visitors will be received from 1 to 10 p.m.

DISMISSAL OF HOME BUTCHER SUSTAINED IN BOARD DECISION

Removal of Charles Hoderlein as butcher at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home by Thomas F. Andrews, superintendent, has been sustained by the state civil service board, following hearing of Hoderlein's appeal at the institution Tuesday. Announcement of the commission's decision was received by Superintendent Andrews Thursday morning.

Hoderlein was dismissed as butcher at the Home by Superintendent Andrews two weeks ago, on the charge that meats prepared in his department were unfit to eat. Hoderlein denied the charge and appealed for reinstatement to the civil service commission.

Chairman Swisher and Mr. Bundy of the commission held an investigation of the case Tuesday and interviewed people connected with the Home. Several witnesses supported Superintendent Andrews and Hoderlein testified in his own behalf. Jacob Marshall, Xenia, former butcher at the Home, was given Hoderlein's place by the superintendent.

MRS. PHOEBE E. GRAY DIES ON THURSDAY

Mrs. Phoebe E. Gray, 71, widow of Walter J. Gray, died at the home of her cousin, Mrs. Ella Blake, 239 East Third Street, Thursday morning at 2:40 o'clock after a short illness, from intestinal trouble.

Mrs. Gray was born in New Jasper and lived there until moving to Dayton in 1913. She made her home with her cousin in Xenia after the death of Mr. Blake six months ago. Her husband preceded her in death nine years.

She was a prominent resident of Greene County and a member of the New Jasper M. E. Church.

Mrs. Gray is survived by three children, Camaraldisa, of Gallipolis, O.; F. O. Gray, chief engineer of the Ohmer Fars Register Company, Dayton, and Russell R. Gray of Dayton; three sisters and one brother, Mrs. Josephine Swadner, of Dayton; Mrs. Jane Sanders and Mrs. Retta Smith both of Xenia, and Jacob Gray of Xenia, besides four grand children.

Funeral services will be held at the home of Mrs. Blake Saturday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock last time, with interment in Woodland Cemetery.

Quality at Low Cost

GET AT THE CAUSE!

Many Xenia Folks Are Showing How to Avoid Needless Suffering.

There's nothing more annoying than kidney weakness or inability to properly control the kidney secretions. Night and day alike, the sufferer is tormented and what with the burning and scalding, the attendant backache, headache and dizziness, life is indeed a burden. Doan's Pills—a stimulant diuretic to the kidneys—have brought peace and comfort to many Xenia people. Profit by this Xenia resident's experience:

E. L. Richards, prop. barber shop, 514 W. Second St., says: "My back was sore and ached constantly. Mornings my back and shoulders were so lame and stiff, I could hardly move. My back was weak and it was hard to stand any length of time. When I stooped I got sharp pains through my back. I had to get up several times at night to pass the kidney secretions. Doan's Pills relieved me of the pains in my back and my kidneys became normal."

What you get for your money—that is what really counts—that is the definition of value.

In a Chevrolet you get the greatest amount of quality at low cost that it is possible to obtain in any car built.

Chevrolet offers you the most for your automobile dollar. It possesses 83 distinct quality features. It possesses construction typical of the highest priced cars—a powerful, economical motor—dry plate disc clutch—selective three speed transmission—sturdy rear axle with pressed steel, banjo type housing—semi-elliptic springs of chrome-vanadium steel—beautiful streamline bodies, with closed models by Fisher, finished in handsome colors of Duco whose luster and color last indefinitely. Compare these features with those of any car that you may wish to buy.

Chevrolet gives you power, durability, dependability, comfort, economy and fine appearance. And because this car provides such an extent of quality at low cost, Chevrolet has become the world's largest builder of quality cars with sliding gear transmission. See these remarkable values today.

Permanent roads are a good investment—not an expense

Don't Let Your Community Make the Same Mistake

Within recent years many communities have made the mistake of paving their highways at what they considered a "bargain price." The taxpayers thought they would save thousands of dollars.

But no one could foresee the astounding increase in motor traffic that was to come. As a result roads not built for permanence were soon badly in need of expensive repair. Annual maintenance costs piled up staggering totals.

In many instances the maintenance has not only wiped out the hoped for saving, but has exceeded original cost. And in many cases also it has been necessary to build entirely new roads—of permanent construction.

There are communities, however, which refuse to be misled by bargain price offerings. Many of these also built roads several years ago. And they built for permanence with concrete.

Those concrete roads, built in accordance with approved standards of highway construction, are in as good condition today as when they were built. And the cost of repairs and maintenance has been merely nominal. In fact, this saving is actually paying for these permanently paved highways. And remember that this saving will continue long after the bonds are paid for.

Which of these communities will yours be? Think it over. Then write us for facts and figures. We can prove to you that the most economical paving in the end is concrete—it repairs built out and the maintenance built in.

WORLD WAR INFANTRY COMPANY WILL HOLD THIRD ANNUAL REUNION HERE SEPTEMBER 2

Members of Company F, 330th Infantry, an Eighty-Third Division unit of the World War, will hold its annual reunion at the Ohio Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home here September 2, it is announced.

The reunion will be an all-day affair, with a program starting at 9 a. m., and keeping the ex-soldiers busy until 9 or 10 p. m. Home officials have granted use of the Armory at the institution for the meetings and the American Legion Auxiliary will furnish two meals to the delegates.

Seventy-five members of the company from Greene, Clinton and Fayette Counties are expected to attend. Sheriff Morris Sharp, James Curlett of Xenia and Ora Saunders of Washington C. H., compose the committee that is making plans for the day. They will probably include a get-together session in the morning, a swimming party in the afternoon followed by a business session. The air will be filled with army melodies of war days at night.

The reunions were inaugurated with a meeting at the Fairgrounds here in 1923 and last year the veterans met at Washington C. H. Major W. P. Edmunds, former commander of the company, who came to Washington C. H. from Cleveland has since located in St. Louis where he is director of physical education at Washington university. He is on his way to O. now and is expected to attend the reunion with a number of veterans from Cleveland.

The company was formed early in 1917 at Camp Sherman and later saw overseas service. Many Greene County soldiers belonged to the unit.

What Four Dutch Brothers Did!

Along late in 1923 Guy Coy, living out on the Shakertown Road West of Alpha, bought a corn husker of us. He used it that fall quite successfully but he told us one day that there was a certain odd "himmy" about it that he couldn't exactly understand. Nothing fatal, but just a kind of orneriness that he couldn't fix.

Next season (1924), when he geared up the husker for work, the same old trouble appeared. We sent out an expert but he couldn't locate the tremor either.

Then we wrote The Rosenthal Corn Husker Co., and told them as best we could of the trouble Guy was having.

Right back came this message:

"Give him a new one and send his old one to the factory. We want to see what's the matter ourselves."

Back in 1882 four Dutch boys, AUGUST, CARL, GUSTAVE and WILLIAM ROSENTHAL built the FIRST CORN husker. That's 43 years ago! By just such service as they gave Guy Coy have they made the Rosenthal Corn Husker a pride among farmers in every corn growing State in the Union.

Certainly it's a pleasure to represent such a house, such a machine and such men.

And don't forget this either:

This is going to be a whale of a corn year. A corn husker is NOT an expense. In many, many cases it pays for itself on One year! We have the figures to prove it. Man labor is high, results many times uncertain. Machinery is SURE—cost are cut and cut and CUT! And a dollar is a DOLLAR!

STUDEBAKER CAR DEVELOPES WEAKNESS!

SUTTON TWINS IN PANIC!

STUDEBAKER CO. APPEALED TO!

Saturday afternoon while Verne was busy putting the finishing "touch" on a sale in busts Bill Clemmens from Cedarville hollerin' and whoopin' and rarin' up about how rotten the Studebaker car was!

Mack, Beal and the Sutton Twins did everything they could to quiet him, Mack even going so far as to pull his famous and seldom used smile on him and Jack offering to lend Bill his pipe but Bill was militant and craved action!

As the store was full of customers, they finally got Bill back in the auto shed to find out what itched him. What Bill said was aplenty.

"This Studebaker car of mine is junk! I've been reading all his bunk about how good it is and how STRONG it is and I'm here to register an A-1 bellake on the one I've been using," says Bill.

"I bought this Studebaker in 1919 and I've only driven the blamed thing 125,000 miles, yet what do I find? Ask me! Yesterday the steering wheel, right where I hold my hands, wore CLEAR THROUGH!"

Verne fainted! Harry fainted! Mack half fainted! Jack covered his ears so he couldn't hear any more! Beal NEARLY fainted but managed to crawl over to a nail bin until he recovered his aplomb.

Verne came too first and dashed over to Harold Fawcett to find out if Harold was having the same trouble. Together they inspected Harold's '22 model, which showed 38,000 miles.

WEAR SHOWED ON THE WHEEL—THE VARNISH WAS WORN OFF!

Heartbroken at the discovery, Verne snuk back to his shop and wired the factory!

Big developments are to be looked for next week—keep in touch! Read next Friday's paper.

Shorty Says:-

They sure pulled RAW (ragged) over here Saturday all right! I met Harold and Bill over at Sayre's getting measured for Nectar sodies and bleave ME those two chaps are sore what I mean. Here's poor Bill after driving his car only 125,000 miles needing a new wheel! And Harold's only 38,000 miles and the varnish off! After hearing this, I'm more sold than ever on a HORSE for REAL WEAR!

HOBBIES OF THE GREAT AND NEAR GREAT AS TOLD BY NEWS WRITER

EDITOR'S NOTE — This is the twenty-sixth of a series of intimate sketches which reveal the national political figure as a "brother under the skin" to the man behind the plow, the white collar worker or the day laborer. Others will follow:

SENATOR GEORGE PEPPER

One of the nation's greatest legal authorities and a power in Republican councils. Senator George Wharton Pepper (R. of Penn.) finds his greatest recreation in hunting wild moose with a camera.

The Pennsylvania Senator would sooner roam the Maine woods on snowshoes hunting for wild game with a fast shooting camera than argue the greatest legal case in the Supreme Court's chamber. That is his chief hobby — the great outdoors his first love.

Among a score of lesser hobbies, the Senator devotes his spare time to farming, mountain climbing, tennis, sailing and other sports. In his youth, the Senator was a football and track star at the University of Pennsylvania, and his love for sports has never waned.

The north woods, deep under a mantle of snow, furnish the Senator with his greatest pleasure. He loves to hike far into the snowy wilderness with a camera. His prize of the chase is a photograph of a huge wild moose, taken at twenty yards focus.

CHASED MOOSE
"I hunted this moose with a camera," he told friends afterward. "I chased him for more than an hour on snowshoes, while he plowed through the great drifts, sinking to his shoulders in the snow at every leap. At last I wore him down, and when I came up to him he was trampling down a circle in anticipation of a fight. He was snorting with anger, so I merely snapped my photograph and departed with haste, leaving him standing in his circle of trampled snow. That moose doesn't know to this day what the chase was all about."

The Senator is an excellent mountain climber. He has tested his ability both on American peaks and in the Alps. His greatest objective has been to climb the south face of Mount Katahdin, in Maine, during the winter snows. He has made five attempts, in each of which he failed.

No other man has ever made the ascent, but Pepper won't give up hope. He says he will try again next winter. Mount Katahdin, by the way, is the second highest peak on the Atlantic coast, and, while often climbed from the north side, it has never been topped from the south face.

On his mountain climbing ventures, Pepper has camped out in the open for two weeks at a time. He has faced great hardships, including temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero and snow ten feet deep, with snow-slides a constant source of danger.

LIKES SAILING

The Senator also is fond of sailing. He owns an eighteen foot sloop which he sails each summer in Maine waters. He will sail his little vessel down the Maine coast from sunrise to sunset, land and camp ashore overnight, making a return trip the following day. That too, is a source of real pleasure to the Senator.

When not in Washington or on a vacation trip, the Senator lives on a 177-acre farm near Devon, Pa., a short distance from Valley Forge. He swings a "mean axe" according to his neighbors, and enjoys a local reputation as a carpenter.

Mrs. Pepper is the scientific farmer of our family, the Senator explains. "I do the heavy work with a pick and shovel and an axe."

Pepper chops firewood, repairs damaged buildings, and he has used his carpentry knowledge even to build miniature ship models.

"I like best," he adds, however, "to get out on the farm and take hold of an axe."

HEAVY EATER

His weakness is eating. The Senator loves hearty meals.

"I've never really had enough to eat," is his plaint. "Many times I've faced the opportunity of getting enough to satisfy my appetite, but I've always had to stop because of my capacity. It's a weakness, and I have to struggle continually to keep my weight down."

Back in 1883 and 1884 Pepper was an athletic star at the University of Pennsylvania. Today he plays an "old man's game" of tennis—too young yet for golf—and he is an ardent baseball fan. In 1914 he defended organized baseball in litigation caused by the Federal League's meteoric career. He personally drafted the agreement entered into by the American and National Leagues when peace was finally restored. Recently he has used his influence toward the erection of a permanent memorial to baseball in the national capital.

The Senator devotes much time to reading, particularly on obscure legal points. His great legal attainments have won him wide recognition and many honors, including a dozen university degrees. He is also the author of many legal essays, a number of law books and several digests of legal opinions.

But though he won his right to fame in a courtroom, the Senator's first love is the great outdoors.

Next—Senator Thomas J. Walsh.

Health Hints
by the Father of Physical Culture

To really appreciate the harmful results of drinking intoxicants and the gain in force, physical, nervous, and mental, consequent on temperance or abstinence, one has only to start the day with some kind of stimulant, and continue to indulge hour after hour. The next day let him use no stimulant at all, and he will be decidedly depressed, his mind will not be so keen, nor his head so clear. The nervous system that is not accustomed to the use of excitants will never know the restlessness and worry and feeling of exhaustion which eternally beset the man who tries by the daily use of stimulants to keep his nerve-cells from becoming naturally exhausted.

Those who are used to tea and coffee and other stimulants, and as a consequence suffer from digestive disturbances, congested liver, nervousness, and numerous other ills, will do well to change to cocoa, which is not only a pleasing drink, but is a nutritive one as well. The hot water used in making cocoa is stimulating and gives the user a grateful sense of comfort. It is an aid to digestion and causes no debility.

Since water forms a large proportion of all our tissues and is being lost constantly in the excretions, it follows that a considerable quantity (estimated at from three to five pints) must be taken daily in some form or other. A glass of cold water on rising rinses out the stomach and keeps the appetite for breakfast. Generous draughts of cold water between meals flush the intestinal tract and relieve a tendency to constipation. Hot water, taken just before going to bed, relieves headache caused by indigestion, and is excellent in cases of insomnia. Many persons have to exercise extreme care in their use of milk, which may curdle in a mass in the stomach, or may cause constipation, the former may generally be obviated by taking the liquid slowly, and a sip at a time; the latter by modifying the milk by the addition of water to suit the individual. It would be well for us to look to our drinking if we would live a natural and normal life. To enjoy superb health and all that health means, the drinking of tea or coffee and alcohol should be religiously avoided. If, however, you will persist in drinking tea or coffee, why not do it very moderately?

WANTS CEMENT PLANT

Bellefontaine, O., Aug. 27—Governor Donahey has asked engineers for an estimate of the probable cost of operating a state-owned cement plant, in Logan County, with prison labor. This announcement was made by the governor during his address at the recent Logan County Grange picnic at O'Connor's Landing, in Logan Lake Park. The governor, also, informed his hearers that, while he opposes a state constabulary, he favors a state-county plan whereby rural police would be selected by the county and the state pay half of the expenses involved in operation of the plan.

In Dad's Footsteps

Robert M. La Follette, Jr., who, seeking his father's seat in the Senate from Wisconsin, says that he will attempt to carry out his father's program if chosen by the voters.

Why?

You should use Indian Gas. Because Indian Refining Co. has only one Refinery located at Lawrenceville, Ill., thereby insuring one grade of gas at all times. No matter if you buy gas at our station to day or next week, the gas is at all times uniform. This has been proven by a series of weekly tests at the Chemistry Department of Antioch College which proved that Indian Gas is within the Government specifications of high test Gas. Therefore you should buy gas at our station and you will find out you will overcome your starting troubles. Try our pure Pennsylvania Oil that we are selling at 55 cents a gallon or two gallons for $1.00.

Jewett Coach NOW $1245

Many Important Improvements
New Lower Price!

Jewett Coach now has more entrance space than any two-door car on the market

New lower prices on all improved Jewett models as follows: Jewett Coach $1245, Jewett De Luxe Touring $1320, Jewett De Luxe Coach $1400, Jewett De Luxe Roadster $1500, Jewett De Luxe Sedan $1680. Prices f. o. b. Detroit, tax extra. Paige-hydraulic 4 wheel brakes at slight extra cost

WE have made Jewett Coach comparison-proof—in roominess—in quality of detail—in price!

To its already unmatched roominess—we have skillfully added length without bulk—for even more roominess.

Jewett Coach now has more entrance space than any two-door car on the market.

You will get an impression of quality when you see Jewett Coach such as you have never associated with so low a price.

And when you drive—you will realize instantly that Jewett has made a truly great motor even greater in smooth, quiet power.

See These Improvements!

The new coincidental lock that locks steering wheel and ignition with one turn of the key; a new air cleaner that keeps road dust and grit out of the cylinders; indirect lighting that eliminates glare on the instrument board; light switches conveniently at hand on the steering gear; gear shift and emergency brake levers moved forward to provide clear floor space in front, and many other equally important improvements.

It Took 17 Years to Build It Jewett has concentrated the experience of 17 years on this Coach. Through all these years it has been our desire to produce a car as good—as beautiful—as completely an engineering triumph as Jewett Coach—at a moderate price!

Already Jewett Coach has brought us a new sales record.

Now—we offer a greater Jewett Coach, with all improvements at an important price reduction.

Come in and let us show you what these improvements mean with yourself at the wheel. (1924-3)

ACROBATS of the SKYLINE

HUNDREDS of feet above the street a pigmy figure glides across a cobweb. Nearby, one of his fellows leans far over nothingness to catch a glowing rivet, tossed casually aloft from the furnace. Another ant-man is driving home one of these rivets, with a mighty clatter of air-gun, while still another pilots a girder into place as surely as though his feet were on solid earth instead of a hand's breadth of steel!

The city's daily circus has opened—a circus that loses nothing of interest because there is no admission charge. Crowds gather. At times they all but block traffic. Stiff necks mean nothing to them. Here, indeed, is a Roman holiday. The trapeze performer of the circus has his net in the event of a fall, the equestrienne has at least an equal chance to land in the sawdust. But the steelworker has no last resource. A misstep means disaster. A hundred times a day he gives the lie to tragedy, and blithely down a column to a street of dangers which probably appall him! Where is the circus thrill that can compare with this workaday game of tag played by the structural steel worker.

Divergent Viewpoints

"That bimbo must be a nut to take such chances," chirps a pert young miss, as she pauses en route to her job in the notions department. She would probably be utterly dumbfounded if she could hear the "nut" remark to his helper that "these here high heels the girls wear are awful dangerous!"

A few years ago it was a common occurrence to see one or more workers riding aloft on a girder which swayed and dangled from a derrick boom. In most cities the sidewalk gang have been cheated of this thrill by a ban imposed through legislation, but this one scene in the drama is not missed. After all, it hardly compares with the feat of skipping across a beam, or dodging a swinging girder, or standing on a drift-pin no larger than the thumb, which has been thrust in a rivet hole with nothing to hold it there except the worker's weight upon it!

All in Day's Work

But it's all in the day's work with these men. The men in the street would probably say that they had lost their perspective on danger—that they were so accustomed to looking possible tragedy in the face that it loses its identity. The cartoonist who drew one of the most popular sketches published in years caught the real spirit of this high disdain of danger. It was a picture of two steel workers, draped in complete relaxation upon a narrow girder far above surrounding structures.

"I wish I was makin' the jack those box fighters drag down," says steelworker No. 1.

"Sure, but they take a chance of bein' all smashed up," replies No. 2!

Many books have been written upon curiosity, anticipation, and allied phenomena. The crowd that rubbers at the acrobats of the skyline is not actuated by the same psychological impulse as the one that stares at a bill-poster, or listens to the patter of the patent medicine vendor. Anticipation probably best describes the mental attitude of those who stand open-mouthed while the riveter perches aloft, working like a gigantic woodpecker. "Some day that bird is going to take a tumble," colloquizes the spectator.

Occasionally the structural steel worker relieves the monotony by giving the sidewalk crowd a real thrill!

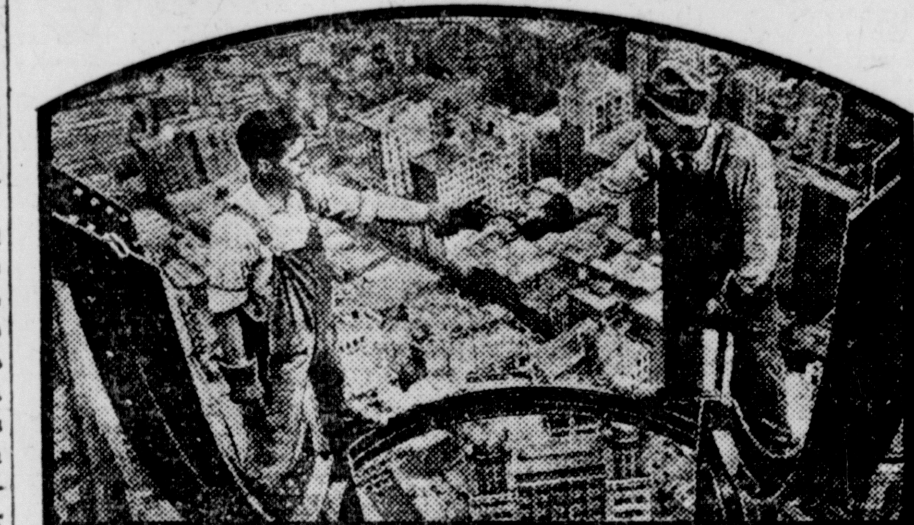

This isn't a movie stunt. It is merely an incident in the average day of the structural steel worker.

Following out this line of thought, even though it may be subconsciously, the man on the sidewalk feels that some day he may see him take the tumble. There are those who will vigorously combat this theory. But it is borne out by the morbid intensity with which people watch any hazardous undertaking.

Not that the work of the structural steel worker is the most hazardous occupation in the world. Of course it is not the safest, as attested by life insurance statistics. The man who chooses such a calling usually has a peculiar physical qualification for his work, and he has a sixth sense which usually operates to warn him of danger. It may be that an unseen girder is swinging his way. He ducks his head and the danger passes. He may have seen it out of the corner of his very alert eye, or he may merely have sensed it.

Confidence of Worker
Probably he could not tell you just how he knew that his safety was men-

Above the sidewalks of almost every city such men as these perform feats that would make any circus audience gasp.

is one of many unusual occupations that have been developed in America. The skyscraper, which created his trade, is peculiarly an American institution. A half century ago, masonry construction towering six to nine stories high was considered the maximum for safety and utility. Then came Bessemer steel, and later open hearth steel. Here was a material that would perform with mathematical exactness. A steel column of a given size established that it would do a specific amount of work in a more efficient manner than any other known material. This development of steel came at a time when land values in the business sections of the larger cities were becoming almost prohibitive. Taller buildings were the only solution, and structural steel made them possible.

"Tailor Made" Buildings

Quickly there developed, between the rolling mills and the purchaser, the structural steel fabricating plant. Now was come, indeed, the era of the tailor-made building and the structural steel worker. From the engineer's drawings and specifications the framework of the great structure was fabricated by the structural steel mill. When it reached the job, each piece bore a number which designated its place in the skeleton. It became the steel worker's job to put each piece in its proper place, and drive home each previously designated rivet.

The steelworker's agility and danger entrance the pedestrian. The structure which he so accurately fits together catches the imagination of the builder, the architect and the business man.

Like Human Being

A speaker at the recent Architectural and Allied Arts Exposition, in Grand Central Palace, New York, built his address around the assertion that the American skyscraper is built like a human being, and does practically everything a man does except walk. His simile is well worth quoting:

"The metal feet rest on the solid rock, which was reached by huge caissons. Its frame work of steel is a complete skeleton with articulated and riveted ribs, arms, legs and spine. Its joints can move ever so slightly when heat expands and cold contracts, and yet so braced are they that it can resist the strain of storm. The stomach is the furnace room—source of heat and light and power. From its heart—the boilers and machinery—spread the arteries, which carry the equivalent of blood throughout its body—the pipes which warm the radiators in winter."

Continuing the figure, the architect likens the steam and water pipes to the human circulatory system; the wiring system to the nerves; the ventilating scheme to the respiratory system.

Nonchalant is the word that best describes the attitude of the actors in this scene from the daily acrobatic act of the skyline.

Wider Field of Steel

The field of usefulness of structural steel continues to increase. Architects, engineers and city planners are forecasting cities that will tower higher into the ether than anything that has yet been planned. It may be necessary to use field glasses to get a good look at the structural steel worker of a few years hence. It has been demonstrated that steel is capable of doing more and better work than has heretofore been required of it. This phase of the situation has been the subject of exhaustive investigations by the American Institute of Steel Construction, an organization which represents almost the entire fabricated steel industry of the United States and Canada. As a result of these investigations, a standard specification for the fabrication and erection of structural steel has been developed which makes possible a saving of not less than twelve per cent on all steel structures as compared with old methods.

Technical schools, research laboratories and government bureaus are discovering new capabilities of and uses for steel. New alloys are being developed. New economies are being inaugurated.

And the sidewalk crowd is looking forward to the opening of the greater show, when the drama of the architect and engineer for the city of tomorrow are translated into towering piles of steel, surrounded by brick and stone and cement and tile.

XENIA O. K. SAYS LOCAL TRAFFIC COP

"If you want to appreciate Xenia, spend a few days in some other city this size or even larger."

Thus argues Peter Shagin, traffic policeman. "Xenia is the best regulated city anywhere near its size in the state," he continues.

Shagin has just returned from Chillicothe, where he helped direct traffic during the state convention of the American Legion. He was "loaned" to the Chillicothe Police by Chief M. E. Graham and took advantage of several days vacation still due him on his annual time off.

Deliver Belden, secretary of the Greene County Automobile Club, and special deputy sheriff, also has returned from Chillicothe where he supervised traffic direction during the meeting. Several traffic officers from the Columbus department further augmented Chillicothe police in the effort to handle the increased traffic.

"Chillicothe does not have a light-signal traffic beacon as we have and only stationary lights indicate dangerous intersections," said Belden. "As a result traffic policemen had to handle all the traffic with hand signals."

Shagin had traffic moving at his corner, Paint and Second Streets, with rapid regularity, says Belden. He handled the corner so effectively that crowds stood on the corners while he was working to watch him "do his stuff."

"They thought Pete was from Columbus. That Columbus cop sure knows his onions when it comes to handling traffic," Belden said members of the crowd repeated frequently.

END BUNION PAIN FOREVER

No Need to Suffer Another Day Those Agonizing Torturing Pains

There is one simple yet inexpensive way to reduce inflamed, swollen toe joints and get them down to normal and that is to apply Moore's Emerald Oil night and morning and people who suffer from such enlargements would be wise to reduce them before they reach a more or less chronic stage.

Ask Sayre and Hemphill, Sohn's Drug Store or any first class druggist for an original two-ounce bottle of Moore's Emerald Oil (full strength) and refuse to accept anything in its place. It is such a highly concentrated preparation that two ounces lasts a long time and furthermore if this wonderful discovery does not give you complete satisfaction you can have your money refunded.

Special note: People who want to reduce swollen or varicose veins should get a bottle of Emerald Oil at once. Applied night and morning as directed they will quickly notice an improvement which will continue until the veins and bunches are reduced to normal.—Adv.

DUKE KAHANAMOKU GETS HERO MEDAL

Honolulu, August 27.—Hawaii is sending to her favorite son, Duke Kahanamoku, a medal of honor inscribed with the legend "For Heroism" for the part he played in saving a party of shipwrecked fishermen from drowning at Newport Beach, California, on June 14 of this year. Of 12 lives saved, Duke is credited with eight. His younger brother Sam also did valiant service in helping to save the other four.

Duke has now been away from the islands for four years, but he is just as dear to residents here as in the days when he was swimming for Hawaii and smashing speed records right and left. Lifelong friends here like to recall how never in the height of his fame did he develop an air of self importance or boastfulness. And this is probably the chief reason that he gained and held the affection of thousands of swimming fans. Another reason was his splendid sportsmanship at all times and still another the fine way in which he kept in training, in season and out.

Many visitors to these islands still inquire for "the Duke," believing that this is a title of nobility rather than a mere name. His father was Duke Kahanamoku, also, being so named, because of the fact that he was born on the day the Duke of Edinburgh arrived on a visit to Hawaii.

EAST END NEWS

Mr. Steve Shanks and Mrs. Emma Hampton, well known residents of this city were quietly united in marriage Tuesday evening, August 2, at half after seven. Reverend Allen, pastor of Middle Run Baptist Church officiated.

Mrs. Edward Taylor of Lexington, Avenue left Sunday to be the guest of her son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Pearl Taylor of Cleveland. She will remain several weeks.

Mrs. Anna Jones of the Jamestown Pike, in company with her son Elsie and daughter Carrie, were Sunday guests of her brothers Reuben, Othella and Nelson Clark of Piqua, O.

Mr. William Kirk of East Church Street, still continues very ill at his home.

The Rev. R. E. Hutchinson, pastor of the St. John's A. M. E. Church, is the guest of Rev. P. S. Hill of Cincinnati this week and also assisting him in an evangelistic service with his church.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Smith and brother Lord of Huntington, W. Va., in company with their brother, Mr. Edward Smith, who is the Grand Lodge Keeper of Records and Seals of the Knights of Pythias of the State of Texas were Tuesday guests of Prof. Arthur Taylor of East Main Street.

Mrs. Nora Scott of Portsmouth, Ohio is the guest of her sister Mrs. Florence Lindsey and other relatives.

Remember that tonight is the night that the famous "Jones-Hilliard Jubilee Singers" are to render their musical. It will be precedent for all who desire to hear a first class musical to spend their day to Third Baptist Church this evening at 8 o'clock. Do not fail to come!

MODISH MITZI—Fashion Is Becoming Fancier

By JAY V. JAY

"All the new dresses are so plain," laments Polly. And Mitzi is wondering just what Polly means, as she herself is wearing a very giddy and gay printed frock. Polly explains that prints have made unnecessary simpler lines and made unnecessary any further trimmings.

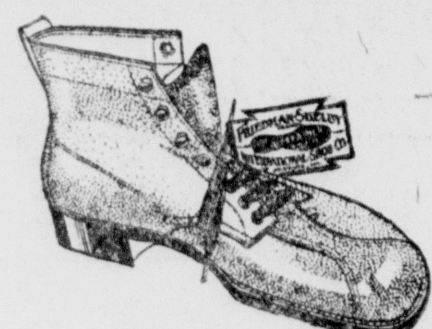

But printed things are only one phase of fashion. There are other styles—and handsome ones, too. This dress that Polly wears seems simple enough but, behold the trimming. It's called carpet embroidery and decorates the pockets with many colors.

This blouse, too, shows how the tendency to get away from plain lines is followed so successfully. The jabot of red with red pipings is a very smart note on a black blouse. Polly's hat is trimmed with red too. Fashions plain? I should say not.

Polly takes it all back. Fashions can be just as fancy as you want to make them. Ribbons make pretty trimmings. Polly's gown has a ribbon collar and bow and a streamer of graduated ribbon bows extended the length of her skirt.

"NOT POSSIBLE TO CLASSIFY"

BY MACK SAUER Houses For Rent 20

Well, we were out to a friend's house last evening listening to a radio set. The cause of it all was that the owner of the radio was going to get McMillan in the far North for us.

RADIO OPERATOR—My batteries are down, one tube is shot, I have only a twenty foot aerial, this loud speaker isn't very good, there is a lot of static tonight but we will get them all right.

RADIO SET—Br-r-r, z-z-z, whhhh, Bim! Bam! Boom! Br!

LADY PRESENT—That makes cold chills run down my back. Don't you imagine that is from the North Pole?

GENTLEMAN PRESENT—I see where Andy Gump is too sick for an oil faker. Have you been reading about the "Dutch" Anderson shooting case? Let's go out on the porch and sit. Better still, let's take a walk.

RADIO OPERATOR—It may be that the wave is freezing before it gets here. I'm pretty hard to get a cold wave down here this time of summer, but—

LADY PRESENT—Hasn't it been warm? I told Mr.—last evening that it had been one of the warmest summers I had ever known. If they could bring cold waves in on those radio sets, I wouldn't mind having one. But to me they are jokes. They've got to put out a real set before I'll buy one.

RADIO SET—Br, wh-h-h, pass—, wh-u-r, wh-u-e-e, bing, Bang! Boom!

LADY PRESENT—Now where does the music come from? Out of that horn? Well, where do you put the records on the thing? What will they build next?

GENTLEMAN PRESENT—We must be going. I must take the gold fish out for a walk yet this evening and it is getting late.

RADIO OPERATOR—Come back some time when my batteries are charged, my tubes are alright, my aerial is up and I will try and get Cincinnati for you.

FRIENDS CHURCH TO HOLD REUNION HERE

The Friends Church congregation of this city is planning an all-day meeting and "home-coming" next Sunday, August 30.

The Rev. Amos Cook, Harveysburg, who organized and was pastor of the church at the time it was built, will preach at the morning service. He was pastor of the congregation for ten years. Several other ministers will be present for the afternoon session.

Special music will be furnished, including songs by the Misses Reva and Mary Dakin, at both services. The choir will be in charge of Grover Crawford.

A large attendance is expected, as many are planning to attend from out of the city. Members and their friends are planning to have luncheon in the basement of the church.

The Reserves have signed up a new battery in preparation for the opening game. It is announced. The services of the Dayton star battery, Charles Rodway, pitcher, and Spats catcher have been obtained and this pair will work the Sunday game.

The Sunday game is expected to devolve into a battle between a proven slugger outfit and an all-around good baseball team.

The Merchants will be slightly handicapped in the opening game in view of the loss of Shoecraft at first base. The team will also be playing its first game away from Dickinson Park this season and will be unable to avail itself of the short left field fence in obtaining home runs.

To offset this, the Merchants' record this season is somewhat more impressive than the Reserves.

The Reserves are practicing earnestly in hopes of winning the city title, in dispute from 1924.

Reserve hopes of winning the opening game were boosted greatly because of the impressive playing of the team in gaining a spectacular victory over the powerful Hamilton Eagles last Sunday.

Merchant Lindsey will officiate in the game Sunday.
